

Biography

Steve Graham Director of Online Casting, iActor

Named Director of Online Casting in December 2006, Steve Graham has been involved with Screen Actors Guild's online casting initiative since the project's inception in 2003. Graham joined the Guild staff in 1999, as National Web and New Media Coordinator and has overseen multiple Web innovations during his tenure including the creation of an online member dues tracker, real time production listings and online dues pay. Steve has an extensive technical background and has served as Web applications manager and senior project manager in the Guild's IT department.

Prior to his work with Screen Actors Guild, Steve launched the electronic media marketing and design firm Future Media, a Nevada based multi-media firm with clients such as the Nevada Commission on Tourism and Mandalay Bay Resort & Casino. After selling the company to Semper Systems (now Edurus Inc), Steve managed the new media division.

With a background in all aspects of filmmaking from acting to camera work, Steve is excited about the career enhancing possibilities that iActor brings to Guild members.
