

The iActor Tech Team

Meta Williams, Steve Dryden, Marcus Charlotte

When iActor, Screen Actors Guild's online member directory went live in June 2003, the Web help team was born. Overseen by 20-year Guild veteran, Meta Williams and her crackerjack staff, Steve Dryden and Marcus Charlotte, the team assists members with all aspects of online resume uploads to iActor. The group offers live iActor walk-throughs via phone and email and a steady, technical hand at all iActor's Upload & Personal events. Members also have the benefit of the group's experience when they make one-on-one appointments.

Meta, Steve and Marcus can be reached at webhelp@sag.org or via phone at 323 549-6789 or 1 800 724-0767.

The iActor Liaisons

Anita Orlic

No stranger to show biz, Anita Orlic was baptized by fire on David Lynch's "The Straight Story" in 1998. Having found a niche in the hectic world of the production office, Anita moved on to work on other features such as "High Fidelity" and "Ali."

Following her stint in the feature film industry, Anita brought her production coordinating experience to help budget and coordinate labor on several special events in Chicago such as the AFL-CIO conference, Gay Games and annual Chicago Auto Shows.

New to L.A., Anita landed at Screen Actors Guild to help with the iActor launch. She serves as iActor liaison, assisting members to create resumes and upload headshots and providing them with information to make full use of this invaluable new tool.

William T. Marshall

William Marshall is the Administrative Assistant in the iActor Online Casting and New Media departments. In this position he assists the department Directors with the duties of day-to-day business.

Mr. Marshall came to the Screen Actors Guild in 2005 as a membership clerk. From there he worked as the Administrative Assistant to the Director of the Background Actors Department where he learned first hand the struggles faced by today's working Actor. He joined the iActor Online Casting and New Media departments in September 2007 with the hopes of helping to create a better future for SAG members and their families. Mr. Marshall is currently a Film Studies major at Santa Monica College.
